

Shocklach School Clock

We are delighted to be able to display details we have been sent recently of a JB Joyce roundhead wall clock specially made for Shocklach School, near Malpas, Cheshire, in 1887.

The clock is in beautiful original condition and is kept wound and going. It is unusual for clocks of this type and of this period for having, not only the Joyce name on the dial, but also the date, and the name of the building to which it was presented.

The clock, which was presented to the village school was purchased following local fundraising to mark Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee.
